Background

After two years of the pandemic and economic hardship, the Inner West arts and music sectors are in state of crisis and decline.

The consequences of the pandemic have included the prohibition of live events, arts-based businesses being unable to plan ahead or commit to future investment, and audiences and patrons staying away from cultural activity. The neglect of the sector by state and federal governments has compounded these blows.

As a result, the whole arts economy is reeling and in serious trouble.

Many artists have been forced to turn away from their careers to pursue a secure income, businesses and organisations have incurred mounting debts and an increasing number of long standing cultural institutions are closing their doors.

The arts is too important to our society as a whole and to central to our local economy and identity, for Council to be passive while this crisis deepens. Council cannot, on our own, resolve structural problems such as income support, regulation and industry assistance. However, we can, and must, play a leadership role in bringing artists, citizens, government agencies and businesses together to address the situation wholistically.

An Inner West arts and music crisis summit can help to clarify the immediate challenges, galvanise the arts community to develop short and long-term solutions and cajole the state and federal governments into doing more to work with us to resuscitate the sector in the Inner West.

Item No: C0322(1) Item 28
Subject: MAYORAL MINUTE: FAIR GRANT FUNDING AND ENDING THE NSW GOVERNMENT'S BIAS AGAINST THE INNER WEST
From: Councillor Darcy Byrne

MOTION:

That Council:

1. Write to the Premier, Treasurer and Local Government Minister requesting that following the findings of the Auditor General about the maladministration of the $252 million Stronger Communities program, that a compensation fund of $24 million be established to pay for infrastructure in the Inner West local government area;
2. Write to the Premier and Treasurer insisting that as the local government area which has experienced most of the disruption from Westconnex construction, the Inner West must be allowed to apply for funds from the $5 billion West/vest program, which is funded by the sale of Westconnex; and
3. Write to the Premier and the Minister for Local Government seeking a commitment that the Inner West will no longer be improperly prevented from applying for grants schemes which we are eligible for, and that the recommendations of the Auditor General to improve the probity and transparency of public grant allocations will be implemented in full.

Background

Auditor General's scathing report into Stronger Communities Fund

On February 8, the NSW Auditor General released the Report into the integrity of grant program administration, which investigated the NSW Government's $252 million Stronger Communities fund: Integrity of grant program administration | Audit Office of New South Wales \(nsw.gov.au\)

The Report confirms that the Inner West was blatantly and improperly prevented from accessing funds from the Stronger Communities program, which was established for the purpose of assisting amalgamated Councils with infrastructure. Instead, the money was funnelled to Liberal and National electorates, including many that weren't even amalgamated.

The Auditor General has found that:

- 96% of the $252 million was allocated to projects in Coalition seats
- 36% of the funding went to one Council, Hornsby, where NSW Liberal Party President Philip Ruddock is the Mayor (ICAC is investigating this awarding of funds)
- $8 million in projects were identified before the guidelines for the program were finalised.

The then Premier and Deputy Premier administered this program as a Liberal and National Party slush fund in the lead up to the 2019 election. This quarter of billion dollars in partisan expenditure of public money was one of the biggest rorts in the history of the State.

Having made the original request for investigation by the Auditor General I am pleased that the truth about the maladministration of this fund has now been brought to light. It is now time for the NSW Government to compensate the people of the Inner West for the $24 million in funding they were improperly prevented from accessing. (This figure represents the amount the Inner West community would have received had the funds been distributed fairly on a per capita basis to amalgamated Councils).

Inner West excluded from proceeds of Westconnex sale

In the wake of the Auditor General's report the Premier has made no apology, acknowledgement, or commitment to fair funding for the Inner West in future grant schemes. In fact, the Government has now created yet another grants program that the Inner West has been excluded from, for base political purposes.

On February 24 the NSW Government announced that the Inner West Council would be excluded from the WestInvest program, funded from the proceeds of the sale of Westconnex. Other than the Inner West, every single Council between the CBD and the Blue Mountains, including our neighbouring local government areas of Burwood and Strathfield, are eligible to benefit from the scheme. This petty exclusion is a continuation of the Government's blatant bias against our community.

Westconnex construction has smashed the Inner West community for almost a decade. Hundreds of homes have been demolished, there are massive, ongoing noise and environmental impacts in our suburbs and central Rozelle is currently an industrial wasteland.

For Dominic Perrottet to now deliberately and cold heartedly exclude the community that has borne the brunt of the construction impacts of the Westconnex project, from benefiting from funds derived from its sale, is a real slap in the face.
